ABOUT THE HELPLINE: The Newark Financial Helpline is a city-wide initiative to give Newark residents free access to financial information. During the week of February 23 – 27, 2009, over 100 financial service and planning professionals volunteered their time and expertise at City of Newark's Non-Emergency Call Center from the hours of 9 a.m. – 7 p.m. Residents dialed-in with personal finance questions ranging from issues with credit cards, mortgages, loans, investing or debt reduction.

Thanks to the support of The City of Newark, Newark Now, the Star Ledger, and the Financial Planners Association of New Jersey, the Brick City Development Corporation was able support our residents through the current economic crisis by providing free access to finance professionals. Local partner organizations included Capital One Bank, City National Bank, Millennium bcpbank, PNC Bank, Provident Bank, TD Bank, Wachovia, The Credit Alternative Group, the Newark Asset Building Coalition, SCORE, and People Management Inc.
